All Around Town

Listen for the Capital Journal carrier boy. He will whistle as he leaves your paper.

W. E. Moses, a university graduate of the class of 1911, stopped in Eugene today on business. He was in Creswell during the morning, where he holds property. Mr. Moses was an instructor in the Salem high school last year, and next year will teach at Madras in eastern Oregon. This summer he is on a ranch which he owns near Jefferson. Eugene Guard.

A suit for divorce was filed today by John A. Harris against Margaret A. Harris. The couple were married in the state of New York in 1912. De- scription is alleged as the grounds for the divorce. There are no children or property rights involved.

Fruits and vegetables of quality, fresh and appetizing, are ready for you at the grocery store of L. M. Boggs & Co. Phone your order or call. Your money back if you are not satisfied.

The Ladies of the Maccabees will hold their annual memorial exercises tonight in the lodge rooms in the McCormack building. In the absence of Mrs. Viola Swartz, captain of the guard, Mrs. Edith Darr will act. The meeting has been postponed since July 8 in the endeavor to find an able leader. Many members of other lodges are expected. The exercises will be public.

and all who care to do so are cordially invited to be present.

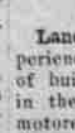

The best dressers in town are putting from $5 to $20 in their pockets by getting their suits of Mosner, the tailor, during his July clearance sale. New fall patterns just in. 344 State street.

Rev. Lorenzo White, B. Frazier and Swayne Frazier and their families, who reside in Highland, left yesterday by motor for the Tillamook beach for a two or three weeks outing.

Don't let your horses and cows suffer from flies. You are losing money every day you do it. Shafer, the dealer in leather goods, has a fly knocker that beats anything of its kind. Try it. 187 South Commercial.

Special meeting of Multnomah Chapter, No. 1, R. A. M., this evening. Work in the Mark Master Degree, visiting companions welcome.

Lane county should profit by the experience of Polk county in the matter of building the oiled macadam roads in the opinion of C. A. Hardy, who motored from Salem last night. He declares that the oiled roads, 12 miles on one side of Independence and five miles on the other side, are like pavement. He states that the advantage is not alone from the standpoint of a pleasant dustless road, but from the matter of actual hardness that the oiled road should appeal to the road builder. Eugene Guard.

The published report of the marriage of Miss Jennie R. Smith and Roy R. Brown turns out an error. The information from apparently reliable sources seems to have been framed up for a practical joke, and its publication was a regrettable mistake.

Glen A. Howe, who was being tried in the circuit court on a charge of non-support, was released yesterday upon a motion for non-suit on the grounds of insufficient evidence. The state closed its case and Attorney Winslow for the defendant made the motion which was granted by Judge Kelly.

The funeral services of Francis L. Baker, nine-year-old son of C. Baker, who died in Portland Sunday, were held this afternoon from the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Southwick, on Twelfth and Marion streets. Rev. R. V. Averson officiated, and burial was in City View cemetery.

Jonathan Bourne, the genial agent at the Southern Pacific passenger depot, is home from a two weeks outing spent touring through the Yellowstone National park. He reports a splendid time, although the temperature was considerably higher than that of Oregon.

Company M. O. N. G. will return home this evening at 3:40 from the encampment at Gearhart park. Letters that have been sent to friends in this city by the boys report a successful encampment and say that they have derived a vast benefit from the maneuvers.

Little Frederick Schrock, four-year-old son of Rev. and Mrs. Percy Frederick Schrock, is quarantined at the parsonage on Center street with scarlet fever. The little fellow is doing nicely but his illness will prevent the family from taking their trip to Alaska, as they planned on leaving for Seattle yesterday and expected to sail for the north on August first. Rev. Schrock is domiciled in a tent on the lawn.

The municipal dormitory was occupied last night for the first time in many days. Officer Woolery rounded up a logger named E. P. Leibeltern and gave him a night's lodging when the stranger came down the river last night in a boat which he said he picked up along the river. The officers feared that the boat might have been stolen, but inquiries by telephone failed to locate any missing boat. Leibeltern carried a huge timber cruiser's pack and appeared to be a working man.

Walter Churchill, generally known as "Spot," motored to Newport a few days ago, and says he had a delightful trip and that "the road he took coming home, which was entirely different from the route he followed in going, was much the better and far easier." His friends, taking the trouble to investigate this statement, discovered that Spot sent his motor from Newport to Corvallis by train in coming home, and therefore do not doubt his statement about the route being better.

The brown mare reported stolen from the stable of Mr. Redding in Independence was located this morning in a pasture near Wacunda, about 12 miles north of this city. The owner of the pasture telephoned to Sheriff Esch that an animal answering the description given in the Capital Journal had been placed in his pasture by a stranger who left immediately. The owner of the horse will go at once to the place to see if it is his horse.

In an opinion written today at the request of J. W. Butler, recorder of Marshfield, Attorney General Crawford held that under the amendment of 1910 of section 2, article II, of the constitution cities and towns were authorized to amend their charters subject to the constitution and criminal laws. He held that if a city amended its charter and provided a manner of nominating candidates for city offices the charter takes precedence of the direct primary law, which provides that a city with 2000 or more inhabitants may nominate candidates according to its provisions.

Announcement was made today that the circuit court would not hear argument for a change of title of the bill initiated by W. P. George to abolish the state desert land board until after the return to the city of Governor West. Alleging that the title prepared by Attorney General Crawford was unfair, Miss Fern Hobbs, private secretary to the governor, last Saturday petitioned the circuit court for a change of title. Governor West, it is understood, is one of the authors of the measure, and Miss Hobbs asked the court to defer the hearing until he returned.

S. L. Hulon and wife filed a cross bill in equity against W. M. Douglas and C. E. Douglas. The Douglas filed the first complaint, in which they asked for $136.50 damages against Mr. Hulon on the grounds that cows purchased from Mr. Hulon were misrepresented, that some hay purchased was bad and that a bin of oats fell short. The Douglas rented a farm from Mr. and Mrs. Hulon near the town of Turner and it is represented in the cross bill that the defendants did not keep up the fences or buildings and allowed them to fall into a state of dilapidation, that they did not plow deeply enough, that they allowed food weeds to grow and that they sub-leased parts of the farm in violation of the contract. Mr. Hulon asks $300 damages on this account.

Secretary of State Olcott has declined to publish in the election pamphlet a cartoon depicting W. S. U'Ren, of Oregon City, operating a shell game. The cartoon was tendered by Robert E. Smith, of Roseburg, secretary-treasurer of the Oregon National Tax Reform association. He said the association has a membership of 8000 farmers, 21 counties of the state being represented. The picture shows Mr. U'Ren at a table upon which were three shells. One of the shells was labeled "Graduated Surtax Amendment," another "Poll Tax" and the other "1500 Exemption." Under the latter was a pea labeled "Single Tax." "I'll surely but-falo them this time," and "find the pea" are the captions of the cartoon. When first informed by the secretary of state that he could not publish the cartoon, Mr. Smith threatened to file a mandamus suit, but later acquiesced in the ruling. He filed two arguments against the $1500 exemption measure for the pamphlet.
